It is said the entering class will contain much the largest number of girls that ever entered a freshman class there.

Quite a number of Dover men and women were among the 250 employees who reported for duty at the navy yard Monday in the industrial department. The officials had a busy time with the preliminary work of enrolling the new employees. Several Dover clerks were among the number. The weekly payroll at the yard is said to be $175,000.

The advice is that the efforts of the company be continued as to imperative and invaluable installation.

The company also has been notified that a substantial charge will be made effective after September 1 on all installations where the rate was between $2 and $3 a charge of $12 will be made for installing and where the rate is over $4 the company will collect $12 as the charge of installing. The Farmington company was awarded contracts totaling $321,150, while the Somersworth company was given a business totaling $232,050. The government contracts call for 1,500,000 pairs of navy shoes and 2,000,000 pairs of army shoes and all most of the contracts for these have been awarded to New England concerns. On the navy shoes the appropriation allows $2,400,000 while the army shoes will cost the government $13,600,000.

Frederick and Mrs. Beech of the local Salvation army returned from Boston Tuesday where they attended a great welcome meeting to Mrs. Brigadier Sheppard, who has just returned from war work in France. Mrs. Sheppard has some marvellous and thrilling experiences to tell and arrangements are being made for her to speak in Dover towards the end of the present month.

The 19th annual session of the Spafford County association of Congregational churches will be held Tuesday and Wednesday of next week with the church in Farmington of which Rev. J. G. Hinch is the pastor. The general theme for consideration will be "The Challenge of the Hour."

ROCHESTER

Rochester, Sept. 12.—Corporal Reginald J. Dwyer, formerly of East Rochester, who was born in 1882 went overseas with the American expeditionary force in March, 1918 and as a member of the Ninth Machine Gun battery was cited for bravery on the battle field in France. He received his military training at Fort Slocum, N. Y., and Camp Greiner, Charlotte, N.C.

At a meeting of Hermon temple, Pythian Sisters Tuesday evening, the degree was conferred followed by light refreshments. During the social hour Mrs. Augusta Lock in behalf of the temple presented Mrs. Mary Rollins with a handsome bouquet of flowers in honor of her birthday.

General Manager N. Thurston Kinnell of the Rochester fair announced that the railroads will furnish one and one-half round trip fares during the fair at intervals, Plymouth, Milford, Manchester, Portland, Boston and intermediate stations.

Rev. Charles Homer Fernald, of this city, formerly pastor of the First Congregational church will commence next Sunday a three months pastorate at the Mystleside Congregational church, Malden, Mass., where he preached for a number of years. The pastor of the church is to be engaged in his work.

C., is visiting in Rochester and North Barrington, accompanied by his wife and three children. They came to this city by automobile. Mr. Smith has 150 pupils. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Smith of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wilmet of Gorham, Me., visited in Lowell, Mass., for the first time since the early years of their married life, where they began housekeeping. They naturally noted many changes.

FINE DISPLAY FLAGS TODAY

Today was the big day for the men who have reached the age of 18 and have not yet reached the age of 48, to do their duty and register in the great army which will make possible the freedom of the world.

In many cases, fathers and sons registered for many a man of forty has a boy of over 18, and both were eager and willing to do their best to make safe the ideals of the American people.

In anticipation of the registration today the local board No. 1 have been busy for some weeks and especially in the past week, when they were called upon to register the absentees, that is men employed at the ship yards and navy yard, who are away from home.

Clerk W. E. Marvin on Wednesday estimated that this board has registered at least 3500 absentees, working day and well into the night at the task.

It is estimated that at least 2500 were registered in this city at the different polling places today, and according to the latest instructions of the Provost Marshal General, the local boards will at once send the questionnaires to the men from 19 to 21 and from 21 to 25 as soon as possible so that they may be classified at once and become available for the calls which will be made as soon as the classification is complete.

The questionnaires will be sent to the others later, but not for weeks at least.

Out of the class of youths from 19 to 21, the war department is looking for the bulk of their men, for between the ages of 19 and 21 the percentage for Class I must necessarily be small, owing to the fact that the percentage of married men and men in responsible positions in essential industries is much larger.

The Provost Marshal General in a recent communication urged the employers of men who are essential for war purposes to make application for deferred classification as soon as possible, so that the government can get some estimate of this class.

Today was observed as a holiday in many places and Provost Marshal General Crowder in a statement to the editors on Tuesday night expressed a wish that "every flag be flying and every band be playing on registration day."

The idea was a good one, for the day will be long remembered in the history of the country. Everybody having in their possession a flag displayed it today.

Everything was in readiness at the words of this city and at the town halls of the surrounding towns, to take care of the men. The Navy Yard allowed men two hours' time off to register and the men at the shipyards and in the other industries had time off as they needed it. Every employer should see that every man under them of the draft age does not forget his obligation for the government, while condoning unavoidable absence, will impose a sentence of a year in jail on those who fail to register.

If you are in the army or navy, or in the naval reserves, and not waiting orders there is no need to register, but this is the only exemption. Another thing, don't wait until the last minute for the registration places are open from 7 a. m. to 2 p. m. so don't crowd.

RED SOX NOW WORLD CHAMPIONS

(By Associated Press)
Boston, Sept. 11.—The Boston Red Sox are the non-essential champions of the world, having won the deciding game from the Chicago Cubs on Wednesday afternoon before a comparatively small crowd, only 15,235 registering. It was Flack's error, in the third that closed the Cubs' chance of the world's championship until after the war at least.

In this inning, Tyler walked, May and he advanced on Hooper's sacrifice. Tyler to Merkle, Shean drew a pass, Strank grounded to Plick and White, man scored both men on a line drive to Flack, that he just got his hand on but could not hold. It was called an error, but could well have gone as a double.

Other than this slip it was a remarkably well played and hard fought game with the Cubs unable to follow May's underhand delivery. There was no delay in the game, the players having come to an agreement with the managers of both teams, during the forenoon, that they would be treated fairly.

TO INDUCT MEN INTO NAVY

Washington, Sept. 11.—Occupational exemptions and other draft problems were the subject of important conferences today among officials of branches of the Government having to do directly with the conduct of the war. They were taken up at the weekly conference of such officials at the War Department and are understood to have had the chief place on the program for President Wilson's meeting with the War Cabinet.

Secretary Daniels and Provost Marshal General Crowder conferred on plans being worked out for inducting the 15,000 men a month which, it is estimated, will be needed for the Navy, including the Army transport and supply ships. Liberal provision is to be made for bringing into the Navy men with special qualifications or strong desire for sea service.

GERMANS USING WOMEN AVIATORS

With the American Army in France, Sept. 11.—That the Germans are using women military aviators is reported from bringing down in the American lines of German planes. The observer who saw them, and the pilot was a woman.

OFFENSIVE PRACTICALLY STOPPED

(By Associated Press)
Eight weeks to a day of the great drive of the Allies against the German line, saw the Allies under Field Marshal Foch brought to a standstill. The British and French on isolated sectors extending from Flanders to Solons, on Tuesday again reported advances, but on Wednesday there was no such progress toward the important objectives that they have been driving at for days before the torrential rains turned the lowlands into swamps, and the enemy rushed up large reinforcements to fill the gaps in the line through which the Allies threatened to enter and break all of the well laid plans of the German high command.

During the eight weeks the Allies troops have cleared along its entire length the triangle extending from the Meuse to the Aisne, having as its apex Chateau Thierry and Solons, and Rheims as its respective western and eastern anchor points. The Allies are now standing across a large part of the Hindenburg line, and on other sections of it.

To the north the deep salients driven into the Allied line in the direction of the Channel, and from which, advancing point, the Germans hoped to start another offensive, to gain the channel ports with the hope of causing a division of the transports from the Channel to southern France have been bent back in an easterly direction and the enemy expelled from the vantage points.

Until the rain began falling there has been no letup in the Allied offensive, notwithstanding the fact that the German high command had materially altered its resistance, everywhere discarding infantry units, and turning them into machine gun companies. Therefore it is not impossible that when the skies clear, and the ground dries, somewhat Marshal Foch will again start the offensive and strive to clear in the two months of good fighting weather that still remains, the Germans back to the Rhine.

The British and French troops are in a hard race for the honor of taking St. Quentin. Both armies are now equal distance from the city. The British nearest point is at Verdun and the French at Etriches Coupv.

North of the St. Quentin massif the French have made additional slight gains notwithstanding the weather and the strong resistance offered by the enemy who seek to prevent the French from turning this most important position.

Heavy artillery has been brought up all along the line by the enemy who are shelling the allied positions north-east of Solons and between the Aisne and Vesle rivers.

In Flanders the British succeeded in local encounters near Arras and in the region of La Bassée canal.

SHEET METAL TRADES THREAT TO STRIKE

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Sept. 11.—A strike of all workers of the Sheet Metal Trades affiliated with the Amalgamated Steel and Tin Workers will be called on Monday, unless certain changes are made in the sliding scale of the workmen. Immediately, the War Industry Board was informed today. Such a strike would tie up a large portion of the steel industries and the munition plants in the territory between the Mississippi and the Atlantic coast.

VICE PRES. PIEZ COMMENDS LOCAL INDUSTRY

Charles Piez, vice president and general manager of the U. S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, today made a statement of his recent visit to England for the Emergency Fleet Board.

Of the local yard he declares as follows: "The two new yards, that of the Atlantic Corporation, Portsmouth, and the Morse yard, Groton, are excellent in arrangement and equipment, and the yard at Portsmouth, particularly, gives promise of early and gratifying production. Both yards are hampered by lack of labor, but this is in part being met by a considerable housing development in both areas. The spirit of both men and management in both places is excellent. There is full realization of the obligation of the yards under to turn out airplanes, and airplanes 30 days ought to tell a radically different story in accomplishment."

The Atlantic Corporation has worked longer hours in construction since it began operations seven months ago, and the 2000 men employed in ship construction are as intelligent and competent a looking lot as it has been a pleasure to see.

CORGAS INSPECTS U. S. WOUNDED

Paris, Sept. 11.—Major General William C. Gorgas, surgeon general of the United States army, after an inspection tour today of the Paris military hospitals, where Americans were undergoing treatment, expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the wounded are being cared for.

"The cheerfulness and commendable arrangements of the wounded in the hospitals here have been the most impressive thing witnessed by me since my arrival in France," he said. "It is inspiring to see the determination displayed by our men; they are filled with real spirit and there is an atmosphere of happiness among them, although they are suffering from wounds. They are well taken care of and the work of the medical department which I have seen so far has been above reproach."

General Gorgas will leave tomorrow for a trip of inspection of the front line and war medical units. He expects to return to Paris next week.

John D. Ryan, Assistant Secretary of War, left Paris today for a visit to the airplane training camps and aero fields. He expects to return to Paris on Sunday.

Newton D. Baker, the American Secretary of War, left Paris today for a conference with Army officials. He will return here tomorrow for further conferences.

ORGANIZING FOR LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE

Familiar names appear from end to end of the list of Liberty loan chairmen for the forthcoming fourth loan campaign. In fact the great organization which made the third loan campaign so much of a success, New Hampshire as has been maintained substantially unchanged, and now is being coached for its effort. The executive committee is entirely unchanged, and only in rare instances has it been necessary to name new local chairmen.

President Frederick M. Hise of the Chamber of Commerce, who directed the eminently successful third campaign in Portsmouth, will continue. Local chairmen in towns in this district, many seasoned campaigners, will be recognized. Harlan A. Disbee, for example, is to direct the Exeter campaign again, after a brilliant performance in the third drive, and other chairmen are as follows: Hampton, H. L. Tobey; Hampton Falls, W. H. McDevitt; Seabrook, John M. Small; Rye, A. B. Drake; Greenland, Albert H. Hatch; Newmarket, Walter B. Greene; Newington, J. Campbell. The executive committee and the state bankers, at a meeting held in Manchester on Tuesday, formulated plans looking to the raising of New Hampshire's loan quota in the first week of the campaign. "But it over in the first week" was adopted as the campaign slogan.

According to the statement, Miss Kreutzinger received no money for her services, doing the work "because of her love of the home land."

A presidential warrant for her indictment as a dangerous enemy alien has been requested it was announced.

FROST DOES GREAT DAMAGE

There was a killing frost in some parts of this section on Wednesday morning and there is every prospect that there will be a heavy frost this morning. At 1 o'clock the temperature was in the forties and with no air moving, ideal for a frost.

Reports from the farming district about this section, were that the first killing frost, which has been expected, is now in the hands of the farmers on high land, escaped frost. At 5 o'clock Wednesday morning it was reported in some places as low as 28 while in others it was just around the freezing mark. Potatoes and late vegetables were not affected by the frost being beyond damage, but places where the frost of June killed things and replanting was necessary suffered heavily in this frost.

WOMAN GIVES GERMANS TIPS

New York, Sept. 12.—Information has been obtained that Miss Wendy Kreutzinger, a Postal Telegraph company operator, who was taken into custody here yesterday, has transmitted directly to the German government important information concerning munition ships, obtained from ciphers and telegrams which passed through her hands, according to a statement last night by federal officials.

These transmissions, the statement said, were made in 1914 and 1915. But within the last six weeks, it is asserted, Miss Kreutzinger has furnished similar information "to persons who believed to represent the Imperial German government." She has been under surveillance for some time.

Miss Kreutzinger, who is a registered enemy alien, told her examiners that she was born in Posen, Germany, 43 years ago. She has been employed by the Postal company for 18 years.

DENOUNCES IDEAS OF PAN-GERMANS

Stockholm, Sept. 12.—As the first step toward peace Germany must denounce the Pan-German ideas, in the opinion of Professor Hans Delbrueck of the University of Berlin, in an article in the magazine, Prussian Year Book, he declares that the Pan-Germans not only bear a portion of the responsibility for the war, but also the chief responsibility for its prolongation. He says:

"The world demands and has a right to demand that the German people give a guaranty that the Pan-German spirit, the spirit of superiority, of right of hegemony, isn't the German spirit. The best method of showing that the German government has genuinely and irreversibly shown the Pan-German endeavor the door would be for the government to condemn all of these anti-bellum Pan-German resolutions and demonstrate by means of our enemies literature how greatly their conduct damaged us and how to limit the fires of this catastrophe."

CONGRESSMEN WILLING TO FIGHT

Washington, Sept. 11.—Congressmen John Jacob Rogers of Lowell and Walter of Malden are willing to enter the Army and go to France in a fighting unit. Mr. Rogers left this afternoon for Lowell, where he will register on Thursday. "I shall waive all claims to exemption when I appear before the draft board in my district," said Mr. Rogers. "Moreover, I shall formally request the board to place me in Class I."

Other members of the Bay State delegation within the extended military ages are: Shelton, Luffin and Wigham. Mr. Luffin is in Massachusetts and will register in his home town. Other congressmen mailed their registration cards from here. Mr. Fuller, in sending his card to Malden, waived all claims to exemption. "He has been trying to secure a commission for the past year."

COWARD TO BE SHOT ON SPOT

With the American Army in France Sept. 12.—American troops of all units have been instructed to kill on the spot anyone who in time of battle surrenders or attempts to persuade them that further resistance is useless.

The instructions, which originated with a certain division and have now been universally adopted because they have proved so popular, were necessary because someone in American uniform, during a German attack on Elsmette on Aug. 27, ran among the troops, calling upon them to cease resistance and declaring that the officers advised surrender.

BIG ENROLLMENT FOR N. H. COLLEGE

Durham, Sept. 12.—Indications are that when college opens Sept. 25, there will be 1,000 soldiers enrolled in the two branches of the Students' Army Training Corps.

Applications are pouring in so rapidly to the registrar's office that there is every evidence that a few days will see the physical limits of the college equipment reached. There are about 300 men in the vocational unit constantly stationed at Durham, and the college simply has not enough buildings to handle more than 1,000 men in all, so that 500 men in the college unit is about the greatest possible number.

President Geisel said this morning that prospective students would be urged to come in their application blanks at once. It is not necessary to have the formal permission of the draft board after registration. A man registered, however, at some previous time, not under the 18 to 45 law, must ask his draft board to postpone calling him until the establishment of the Students' Army Training Corps. The S. A. T. C. is now, however, formally established here, with Capt. Randall Ketchum in temporary charge and every thing will be in readiness for the induction of the new men when they report here Sept. 25.

From applications so far received, there is also every indication that fully as many women will attend college this year as last. Last year there were 150. Special dormitory accommodations have been made for them, a large annex having been built to Smith hall, and every provision has been made for their needs.

They Are Dying for Principle.

"You may tell the American people that their soldiers ask nothing better than to go to their death. They can be reproached only with rushing ahead too fast—it is necessary to hold them back."—Marshal Foch.

Dying gloriously for others!

How does this "martyr spirit" compare with yours?

They rush into the jaws of death—too fast!

How fast are you rushing ahead to support them?

So eager, so heroic, they must be held back!

How eager are you? Must you be held back?

How you love, honor and revere them!

But how are you demonstrating this devotion?

Blessed American boys blown to atoms, buried alive, crushed and bleeding, blinded, blistered with liquid fire and poison gas, flesh torn, lungs seared, eyes lost, shattered by shell shock, physical torture in every form!

And yet those who recover and those who fight uninjured amidst this carnage must be held back, so brave and so ardent are they to share in the agony that the world may be free and safe for you and me and posterity.

Could anything possibly happen in all the limitless realm of human possibilities more inspiring to patriotic effort than this superb exhibition of self-sacrifice?

By the blood of these American boys our country is writing its name upon the sky to flame there for all time. The chief honor and glory of saving the world from the rule of the sword will be acclaimed for America down the ages.

Because without her, scientific barbarism would have triumphed.

Knowing all of these things, what have you done?

What have you done to help in this mighty crisis?

What is your record of self-denial to help win the war? Could you read it before our soldiers in France without blushing?

Is your soul still unstirred? Are you still haggling and dicker with yourself as to the measure of your sacrifice for them?

Does distance from the battle front still obscure your vision of the sublime tragedy and the supreme sacrifice going on?

Are you among those who have suffered the agony of "sacrificing" a few luxuries in the great cause?

Those who have endured the "pain" of contributing to the Red Cross and other war charities?

Those who have experienced the "anguish" of loaning the Government a fair share of their savings, at a profit, to help win the war?

How much "blood" have you lost in combating war apathy in your community?

What hardships have you endured in bringing dormant patriots within the breastworks and stimulating them to do their share?

Have you answered the call reluctantly, and with a desire to escape it?

Or have you done these things with joy and gratitude for the chance to help by self-denial?

A grand opportunity will soon be at hand to take a new measure of the depth of your patriotism.

A chance is coming to increase your war-sacrifices to keep pace with the increasing sacrifices "over there" as recorded by the constantly lengthening casualty lists.

Let the share you take in the Fourth Liberty Loan tell the story of the growing intensity of your loyalty and "will to serve."

Mr. McAdoo is finding the handling of the United States treasury and the railroads of the country a burdensome task, and it is given out that he may soon retire from the treasury to give his whole time to the transportation problem. That would seem to be enough for one man, and if he does as well there as he has in the treasury he will do well enough.

London dispatches say the Germans are massing U-boats to attack troop ships. It is evident that the "negligible" American army is going over too fast to suit the Kaiser and his cohorts. Good protection has been afforded thus far and there is no reason to fear that this will not be continued.

The Germans, including the Kaiser, desire a lasting peace, says Count Czernin. Well, that is one desire that is likely to be gratified, though probably not exactly in the manner the Germans would wish.

GIVING THE BOYS A "LIFT"

The uniform automobile sticker inviting soldiers and sailors on free rides adopted by the War Camp Community Service stations in New England is now much in evidence on the machines of visiting motorists and is also used by a number of auto owners of this city and vicinity.

The uniform sticker, which is recognized by all entitled men in New England wishing free rides is 4x12 inches with white letters, "Men in service welcome to ride on a blue field, and it has the seal of the War Camp Community Service, which acts for the War and Navy Departments on Training Camp Activities on Community Organization.

The local War Camp Community office has given out 400 of these auto stickers. A messenger with the stickers was sent around one day to machine owners who had their cars in the business section, and about all gladly placed the sticker on their machines. A large number was also left at the Portsmouth Motor Mart. The local War Camp Community Office is out of the slips at present but expects a package of stickers to arrive from Boston in a day or so, and owners of machines may obtain one by calling at that office.

The sticker inviting soldiers and sailors to free rides is used by the W. C. C. Stations, which include Boston, Ayer, Worcester, Cambridge, Portland, New London and Portsmouth, in Boston the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce and the Boston Rotary Club, together with the Metropolitan Boston pleasure houses has been secured. It is thought later that all of the Rotary Clubs, the Chambers of Commerce and the moving picture houses of New England will aid in this work and give additional publicity to free rides for the entitled men. The stickers are free to all who wish to use them on machines.

was a graduate of the Dover Business College a year later. For some time before he enlisted he was in the employ of Uncle Sam at the Custom House, Montreal, Canada. He writes home interesting letters about his experiences in France and is glad to be serving with the colors overseas.

Marvin E. Perkins is the son of Mrs. Edith G. Perkins and the late George E. Perkins of North Hampton. He entered the service Sept. 21, 1917 and was sent to Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass. After being there nearly ten months he was sent overseas and is "somewhere in France," arriving there about the first of August.

In a letter to his mother soon after his arrival overseas he writes in part as follows:

"We arrived in camp last night. It is a rest camp in England, a large one but not as big as Camp Devens. I can tell you but little about it, owing to censorship. We get good food here, even better than we did in the ship. On the trip over we saw submarines but they did not stand any show with us. We leave here for another place in a few days. We had a parade yesterday and after it was over the city served us a lunch of bread, cake and coffee. The lunch concluded we visited an art gallery and enjoyed seeing the paintings.

Now mother, I hope you will feel the way I do about my being overseas. I do not mind it at all and I am also seeing some of the country."

Quirk who carried a registration card issued by the war board at Windsor, Vt., said he had just arrived from Windham, Me., but investigation by the police proved that he had been here several days and had been in the home of the Spinney family on Monday last where he took food from the cellar. When he was discovered in the Spinney barn he had clothing which he took from the barn of James Schurman. He had also been in the cellar of the Schurman residence where he opened some canned food with an axe.

At a late hour the party broke up, wishing Mr. Weston, who had recently enlisted, much success in his service for Uncle Sam.

BIG INCREASE IN USE OF "DOPE"

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Sept. 12.—The habitual use of morphine, cocaine and preparations containing other narcotic drugs has increased rapidly in the United States within the last two years and a drastic anti-narcotic law must be enacted at this session of Congress to check the wholesale spread of the habit. These are the conclusions made public today by a special Treasury investigating committee, with a partial report of the number of drug addicts actually under physician's treatment in the states. Partial report submitted by physicians showing those under treatment in the country shows the following: Connecticut 263; Maine 427; Massachusetts 2238; New Hampshire 1363; Rhode Island 548. These figures are expected to be doubled by later reports.

WELDING
WILL REPAIR IT
What often appears to be a serious,
ruinous crack or break in a cylinder,
casting or piece of machinery, is but a simple piece of repair work to our Expert Welders. Our welding work wonders in repairing broken metal parts—parts that would have to be "scraped" before the process was invented. Remember, our welding generally makes the broken part stronger than it ever was. Inquiries invited.

SPECIMEN HUNTING AT LOCAL R. R. STATION

"Did you ever think how much human nature there is scattered loosely around a railway station?" Inquired a woman who had traveled a good deal of a Portsmouth resident.
"Why I always thought it was fearfully tiresome," declared the stay-at-home person who was addressed. "I just despise waiting to make connections and what there is interesting at a station I can't imagine." She was not only voicing her own but the opinion of the majority.
"Well, now," challenged the first speaker, "you just go down to your own local station a half hour before train time and keep your eyes open and see how many different specimens of the human individual you can notice. Just make a Pollyanna game of it, and then see if it is ever tiresome again."

The Portsmouth lady for the lack of better amusement, followed her friend's advice and the following is what she noted.
A train was clanging in when she reached the station so she stepped outside in time to see an old gentleman alight, in a snaky, cautious manner.
He wore a long overcoat, a square-top derby hat, a beard of rather scraggly proportions, and other incidentals.
His satchel indicated that he was about to pay a visit to city or village relatives; but the noise of the station
confused him, he appeared uncertain, and was apparently wishing that he hadn't made the trip. His only comfort was the umbrella he clung to nervously, holding it as a staff; and also a quid of something upon which he chewed without cessation.
"There's one type," thought the local lady and then she cast her eyes about for a similarly aged member of the female sex to balance against the male specimen. It didn't take long.
A lady whose every garment exam-pled that she was of the elite, was standing in dignity by an opposite dowdiness. Wealth and culture was betokened in every part of her person.
The local lady sized her up quickly as a cold blooded individual, but when the elegant one stooped and spoke kindly to a ragged urchin lingering in the vicinity the Portsmouth woman withdrew her decision for further consideration.

An old lady in rusty clothing sat on one of the seats inside of the station.
Her head was resting wearily against the wall. Her hat, which was not of this season's mode, nor even of the season previous, was somewhat awry.
At first look she appeared most ordinary but the Portsmouth lady now having decided to give every one the benefit of the doubt, took another perusal. The old lady's face, together with her clothing and attitude, was a tale easy to read. It told of years of hard work, of deprivation, and sacrifice. Yet her face was sweet, the sweetness of patience and trust. She was waiting for a good time in some future land, and in the meantime holding on with fortitude and faith, according to her religion. Our home woman rather wanted to step up and offer her hand in encouragement, but as she was only hunting specimens she passed on.

She saw a woman, made up to represent a lady. Paint, powder and other ling to the manipulator's best efforts artistic properties had united according in making a bluff at the real. It was a strong bluff but it did not seem to "flag true." Into the local secker's heart came a shame for her sex, and she turned her eyes away repelled.
Then a kindlier feeling crept in and something told her that even this woman, like every other human individual, was seeking for happiness, and seeking it according to her own ideal.
That her ideal was low was a cause for pity more than repulsion.
Then the individual hunter passed on and her zeal had increased surely.
It was an entertaining game; hunting
human nature specimens.
A mincing, rather winsome miss of perhaps sixteen years came along.
She used her fingers every few minutes to ascertain if her hair was adjusted over her ears properly, and in an unnoticeable interval she turned aside and surreptitiously powdered her nose.
peering meanwhile into a tiny mirror
she carried for the purpose. Her own pretty face was the most interesting specimen she had found yet in her young life.
With her was a youth, aspiring to manhood. The swaggering attitude he had assumed, the cigar held most unsuccessfully between his lips or figure, the language of attempted bravado, all betokened his desire to be thought a man, filled with all the desirable instincts. He, too, was another specimen the Portsmouth lady saw in her character study of the afternoon. It was most unnaturally trying to be what he thought to be natural, or living up to his best ideals in his short search for happiness.
A working man clad in soiled trousers and his more intimate shirt, gave another phase to the situation. The stubby beard on his face specified a savage of barbaric lineage, or of his own manipulations. There was a carefree expression on his face, and independence in his swinging gait as he strolled through the station. "Here, at least,"
declared the local lady, "is nature, nature, and a waving of convention,"
and it appeared rather a relief than otherwise.

A delightful little lassie with golden curls, clad in a dainty white frock came dancing through the depot. "I wonder what that dainty little specimen will develop into for me to classify," thought our Portsmouth friend, smiling at her own amusement. "Yes, or that obstreperous infant over there," she mused, looking rather critically at a small child who was insisting on pulling a dog's tail despite his mother's protest, the maternal element being of a rather glutinous substance, according to our friend's judgment.
It wasn't much longer that our Portsmouth neighbor had to devote to the afternoon game; but she had taken amusing notes for a sketch she was making. She had increased her discernment of human nature and its foibles and had learned that after all individuals have much in common.
Furthermore she made the decision that if ever she had need to wait at a railway station, or other public waiting place, she would spend her time in collecting "specimens" for a character study book she was already determined to keep.

GIRLS' PATRIOTIC LEAGUE PLANS BUSY WINTER

Recreation Rooms and Enlarged Scope for Work.

The Girls' Patriotic League is making plans for a busy fall and winter and a program of work is being arranged by Miss Georgina Moses, director of the organization.

The Girls' Patriotic League is to take in a branch of the American Committee of Devastated France. This work is not, as many suppose, directed except in a minor degree to the rebuilding with trowel and mortar of ruined homes and churches, but rather has been given to the rebuilding of shattered old men and women, to restoring hope and faith in souls scorched by the flame of war and ruthlessness. This work deals with doing for the children also, and aims to supply the people with food, clothing, medicines, to care for the sick and hungry and to find employment for those still able to labor. Such work as this is indistinguishable and brings hope to desolate souls. America's entry into the war has brought new and pressing demands on this country, but the people of devastated France must not look in vain for this aid which America is trying to give it.

One of the things the League is to begin at once is to make woolen crocheted shoulder shawls for the elderly women of France; these are called "French Relief Shawls" and are made of black worsted. Most relief work is confined to knitters, but this is an appeal to good crocheters, but any beginner can make these shawls by the simple directions the League will furnish. A supply of black worsted will be given out at the League in a few days for this purpose and any person willing to knit a shawl may obtain the required amount at the John Paul Jones Home, the League headquarters. As the work of war knitting is temporarily held up by Board of War Industries knitters could aid in the making of these shawls.

Classes of the Girls' Patriotic League are to start in October, these to include sewing, knitting, home-nursing, first aid, cooking, dancing and dressmaking.

The cafeteria of the Girls' Patriotic League is a great success and the average number of patrons is 10 a day. The food is home-cooked and appetizing and the tables are reset twice a noon to accommodate those who patronize it. At night members of the League act as volunteer servers.

The League is to also become a "Hostess House" this winter. A room is to be fitted up for a reception room where the enlisted men will have the privilege of coming and bringing their relatives and friends.

PICKED UP $94 ON THE RAILROAD TRACK

Money Lost by a Painter at the Shattuck Shipyard.

Joseph Farnell, a painter employed at the Shattuck Shipyard, was a happy man on Tuesday over the recovery of lost money.

Ninety-four dollars disappeared from Farnell in some way or other and he had an idea that it had been lost on one of the ships under construction.

Notices were posted in different places about the yard announcing the loss of his money. The following day the full amount was returned to the owner by Mr. Farrington, a joiner who picked up the lost money on the railroad track, who was as much pleased to return the $94 to the owner as the owner was to receive it.

WHO WILL SUCCEED FRANK E. LEAVITT?

Names of Five Mentioned for Vacancy in Police Board.

Whether or not the Governor has the name of the new police commissioner in his hands to succeed Frank E. Leavitt, the names of the following are mentioned as likely candidates for the board: J. M. Washburn, James Borthwick, Judge H. H. Adams, William J. Carter and Henry P. Payne.

Mr. Washburn was previously appointed to the board but declined the appointment shortly after the same was made by the governor and council. The successor of Mr. Leavitt may be appointed at the next meeting of the governor and council.

DISCHARGED FROM HOSPITAL

John H. Washburn who has been at the Portsmouth Hospital for treatment for several weeks, has been discharged and his improvement is pleasing news to his many friends.

REGISTRATION WILL BE LARGE FOR THIS CITY

Gov't. Figures 20 Per Cent More Than on June 5, 1917.

The registration in this city today is expected to go over the estimated figures which the government says will be 20 per cent more than that of the previous registration day. The local exemption board believes that the total will be far above a 20 per cent increase.

The previous experience of the assistants in the wards on June 5, 1917, counted today as the clerks handled more work and in less time. A number of people whose names did not appear in the list of volunteer assistants published on Wednesday, appeared at the wards today and rendered excellent service.

A Greek and an Italian interpreter in Ward 1 was of great assistance in the registration of foreigners. This ward had issued 355 cards up to 1 o'clock. At the last registration the ward had the largest number in the city. Ward 2 had between 450 and 500 at 1 o'clock. Ward 3 had about 225 at the same hour. Ward 4 at 2 p. m. had 150. Ward 5 had the same number at the same hour.

FIFTY PATIENTS ARE SENT HERE FROM CHELSEA

Transferred to Naval Hospital on Wednesday.

Fifty patients from the United States naval hospital at Chelsea, Mass., were transferred to the hospital at the navy yard on Wednesday. They arrived in special cars over the B. & M. in the afternoon, which were sent direct to the yard. The transfer from Chelsea was made necessary to relieve conditions there and make room for the many enlisted men being sent from the Charlestown navy yard and other places affected by the Spanish influenza.

The patients sent here are those who are so far recovered as to be nearly ready for discharge.

The arrival of the patients gave rise to rumors of wounded sailors and marines being sent here from France and other stories all of which carried absolutely no truth as the Portsmouth hospital simply is taking care of the overflow.
